LEGISLATURE IS FOR SEGREGATION

Large Majority of House of Delegates in Favor of Plan

NO CENTRAL BOARD.

Loss of Liquor Licenses Problem For Law Makers—Various Theories to Meet Deficit.

Richmond, Jan., 18—As the members of the Legislature now stand, tax reform by segregation is assured. This segregation is not expected to be absolute. It will be partial but there will be no central board invested with the powers proposed by the majority report of the Tax Commission.

For two days an unofficial poll has been in progress in both branches of the General Assembly, and the result of the poll shows an overwhelming sentiment in favor of partial segregation as against the central commission plan.

Many who will vote for the partial segregation plan say they would prefer absolute segregation, but they doubt if an abrupt change from the present system to out and out segregation would prove successful. They believe that partial segregation will prove an efficient step toward absolute segregation, and that this absolute condition may be realized in a few years after partial segregation becomes effective.

The problem which confronts the Legislature is the best means of meeting the loss of the liquor tax. Some would fill the empty place in the treasury with the rolling stock tax. but this has stirred up considerable opposition on the part of those whose cities and countries now rely upon this tax for a large part of their revenue.

A tremendous fight is being made on behalf of the proposed tax commission and every argument is being used to win over its opponents. In the Senate sentiment as between the two plans is not unevenly divided, but in the House the advocates of the commission plans are far in the minority.

Delegate Hugh White, of Rockbridge, leader of the opposition, is working in harness with Speaker Cox and Floor Leader Williams to bring about the passage of a segregation bill.

There has been some criticism of those members who forced delay in consideration of the tax plans by voting to keep them in committee until next week. Some have said that this was done with the hope that a drift toward centralization would set in and that the permanent commision plan would thus benefit from the delay.

SHOOTS GIRL IN CHURCH.

Jilted Youth Then Goes Home and Shoots Himself.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 18.—A panic was caused during services in the Church of God last night, when Frederick C. Erdman shot and probably fatally wounded Miss Hattie Gauwitz, his former sweetheart, and then killed himself.

Erdman met the young woman while on her way to church, and asked her to take him back, but she refused. She entered the church, taking a seat near the front. Erdman, waiting until the services started, opened a side door, directly behind Miss Gauwitz, and fired, shooting his victim in the back.

The woman fell to the floor, while the audience made a rush for the front door. Several persons are in a serious condition from being trampled on.

Erdman, after the shooting, made his way out on a freight train to his home in the south end of the city, nearly 4 miles distant. Here he told his relatives of his deed, went to his room, took poison, and then shot himself. He died shortly after the police arrived.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Details have just reached Tiflis regarding a frustrated plot at Teheran against the Russian, French, and Belgian diplomatic corps, intended to be effected on the English Christmas day opposite the British legation. On Christmas eve Mahomet Khan, owner of a shop near the British legation, was blown up by a bomb. An inquiry established the existence of a Turki-Persian committee, organized by the Germans and Turks, for the purpose of involving Persia in a war against Russia and England.

"There is little hope that the Lord ever will be able to save such a hellhole as Baltimore!" shouted Billy Sunday, the whirlwind evangelist, who is conducting a ten weeks' campaign in Philadelphia, at the climax of one of his most sensational sermons in the tabernacle last night. Seventy-five thousand persons attended the morning, afternoon and night services. The conversions reached 1,184 men, women, boys and girls, making a total of over 5,000 within two weeks.

The Rev. Dr. Adolf Guttmacher, one of the best known rabbis in America, and one of the most popular ministers in Baltimore, was stricken suddenly with heart failure at 5:55 o'clock yesterday evening while in the toilet of a coach of the Pennsylvania Limited train just east of Huntingdon, Pa., and soon expired. He was born in Germany in 1861.

The following report has been received at Petrograd from Tiflis: "The army of the Caucasus has covered its flags with glory by a fresh heroic exploit, having completely annihilated the Eleventh Turkish Corps, with the exception of several insignificant elements, which are fleeing in disorder. We have captured all the artillery of this corps. In one direction, where we were pursuing the defeated Turkish troops, we took more than 5,000 prisoners, 14 cannon, an enormous quantity of supplies and nearly 10,000 head of cattle."

The promoters in Japan in what has been called the volunteer movement have issued a manifesto in which they announced their intention of dispatching an army corps to Europe. To this end they are appealing to both Japanese and foreigners for funds. The manifesto says that as Lafayette helped the United States and Garibaldi helped France so the Japanese wish to assist the allies, Great Britain, Russia, and France, to terminate the misery of war and restore peace to the world.

The capture of two towns from the Russians in Persia and rapid advance by Turkish troops toward the Suez Canal were announced in an official statement issued in Constantinople. The forces number 40,000 men. Their artillery includes many guns of the most modern type believed to have been sent to Turkey from Germany.

Queen Victoria of Spain has contracted scarlet fever and is under the care of the court physician.

Mrs. Phyllis Brooks, of Charlottesville, Va., who sailed last week for London to visit her sister, Mrs. William Waldorf Astor, whom she will assist in nursing wounded English soldiers, was granted a limited divorce from her husband, Reginald Brooks, less than three weeks ago. Mrs. Brooks has spent much of her time in the past year or two at the old Langhorne home, "Mirador," near Greenwood, Albemarle county, which estate she purchased several years ago from her father, Col. Chiswell D. Langhorne.

Provisional President Eulaio Gutierrez has been superseded as head of the Mexican convention government by Gen. Roque Gnzales Garza, presiding officer of the convention which last night elected him provisional president to serve until an election shall be held and a president duly selected by ballot. Gen. Garza is Villa adherent. Gen. Garza proclaimed martial law as his first official act, and the convention was simultaneously proclaimed as the supreme governing body, to remain in control until a new executive shall be selected by ballot. Gen. Garza is a with the legislative and judicial heads.

FOR CHEAPER SCHOOL BOOKS

Resolution Introduced in House of Delegates to That End.

WANT EARLY ACTION.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Believes Virginia is Paying More Than Other States.

Richmond, Jan., 18—That the school book situation in Virginia should be investigated is the sense of the House of Delegates on Saturday. It unanimously passed the resolution offered by Delegate Gunn, of Henrico, calling for an investigation.

If an investigation is to be made it should be begun and concluded before the extra session of the General Assembly is adjourned, according to a statement made by Superintendent Stearns of the State Department of Public Instruction.

The committee fails to make an early report prices of books will remain high another year.

Superintendent Stearnes is of opinion that the investigation, if begun immediately, could be concluded with in two weeks or less. He has all the necessary information at hand. Indeed, the members of the investigating committee, he declared, could get enough information from the records of his department in two days to make a complete report.

The State Superintendent further says:

"I believe some of the publishers have offered and are now offering other States better terms, and conditions in the purchase of text-books than have been granted by these same publishers to Virginia. I believe that a few changes in our statutes would enable the State Board of Education to remedy these conditions. The State Board of Education last May appointed two committees —one to make a general investigation of the prices of text books; the other to look into all apparent or alleged discrimations against Virginia. The findings of these committees were reported to the respective publishers and they were given opportunity to make and explanations deemed proper by them. The replies of these publishers were recently placed in the hands of the Attorney General, and it is expected that the final reports of the two committees and the legal opinion of the Attorney General will be placed before the State Board of Education at its next meeting. It is but fair to add that the foregoing statements do not by any means apply to all the publishers.

It now transpires that Prince von Buelow's mission to Rome as Ambassador from Berlin is one of supreme importance. His active work embraces not only that for the German embassy accredited to the Quirinal, but also that for the Prussian and Bavarian legations accredited to the Vatican. Germany seems to be preparing for a supreme effort next spring, when all her reserves will be under arms. Meanwhile, it has been arranged that the direction of the military operations on all fronts shall be assumed by German officers.

Lieut. General Anatole Mikhailovitch Stoessel, the Russian defender of Port Arthur, is dead. He had been affected with paralysis for about six months.

In the Corporation Court today Ida Hicks instituted a suit for divorce from Ulee Hicks on the ground of desertion.

THEORIES OF DOUBLE MURDER.

Detectives Advance Idea that Poker Game Was Predecessor to Killing.

Detectives and constables working in the Clark Station, Alexandria County murder mystery, are frank to confess they are far from a solution.

Many theories have been advanced and thrashed out, and now, it is said, the authorities are working on teh suggestion that the tragedy was the climax of a drunken brawl and poker game.

A conductor on the Washington-Virginia Railway line between Washington and Falls Church, said he knew of a Greek merchant who went to Clark station the night of the tragedy, and returned on the last car reaching Washington at 1:30 o'clock.

A detective went over the details of the shooting as related by Mrs. Hughes, and expressed the belief that the tragedy came at the end of a "party."

Mrs. Hughes was known to carry valuable diamond rings and earrings and large sums of money with her. It is pointed out that had robbery been the motive the two assassins could easily have held her up on the roadway and not have had to go to the house to do the shooting.

Mrs. Hughes often was seen to come home at different hours of the night. It would have been an easy proposition for two highwaymen to have robbed her on the roadway between the railroad tracks and her home.

WILSON A GRANDFATHER.

Mrs. Frances B. Sayre Mother of Bouncing Baby Boy.

President Wilson, at the age of 59 years, is a grandfather for the first time.

The President's first grandchild—a boy—was born to Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre at the White House at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His arrival was announced by Secretary Tumulty in this statement, issued at 6 o'clock.

"Dr. Grayson, the White House physician, states that at 4:30 Mrs. Sayre gave birth to a fine boy. Everything went perfectly, and both are doing well."

This is the second boy ever born in the White House, the first like this one, the grandson of a President. The first was a grandson of President Andrew Jackson.

The only other living White House children are Esther Cleveland, and the Princess Julia Dent Cantacuzene, granddaughter of President Grant. Mrs. Frederick Grant came a bride to the White House and during her stay the future princess was born.

MERCHANT MURDERED

Lifeless Body of M. T. Norris, of Raleigh, Is Found in Back Yard.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 18.—M. T. Norris, for many years a widely known wholesale grocer was found dead in the back yard of his residence on North Blout Street yesterday morning, with a bullet hole through his right temple. The shot was fired at very close range, but the absence of a revolver discredits the theory of suicide. There is evidence that a burglar fired the fatal shot.

Mrs. Norris says that Mr. Norris arose about 4 o'clock yesterday morning and in passing through her room said he thought he heard someone down stairs. He returned to his room a little later and she thought he had gone to sleep. About 6 o'clock an old negro who lives on the lot found the lifeless body in the yard about ten feet from the entrance to the kitchen.

Two boxes had been placed under the kitchen window as if for use in climbing in, and the window was raised. Traces of blood were found in the dining-room and kitchen, and it is not believed this could have been from the wound of Mr. Norris, which is such a nature as to have caused immediate collapse.

AVEZZANO IS A CITY OF THE DEAD

More Earthquake Shocks Last Night and Today Cause Alarm.

MANY ARE STARVING.

Men, Women and Children Digging in Debris for Missing Members of Families—Great Distress.

Avezzano, Jan. 18—What was once the prosperous city of Avezzano is today a tomb of the dead.

Dawn today, however, finds survivors and numerous refugees from the outlying country refusing to leave the ruins until their relatives have been located, living or dead.

There have been a number of distinct shocks last night and today. but, although they caused much alarm, they did little damage

Men, women, and even children of tender years are frantically digging in the derbis of what were once houses in the hope that some one might be alive. They complain that the work of rescue is needlessly slow and that hundreds have perished who might have been saved had the relief been prompt.

But the soldiers working on the ruins have kept at their digging night and day since they arrived. They have gone without food themselves in order that they might feed the refugees.

But many of the bodies already recovered had to be buried immediately and many of the searchers had to be detailed to that gruesome task.

Thousands of the religiously inclined are spending their time at newly erected wayside shrines, praying to the Virgin Mary for aid.

GAMBLERS ADMITTED TO BAIL.

Six Men Put up $1,000 and Others $500

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 18.—Fifteen of the 148 Washingtonians arrested in the raid by Baltimore police on Patuxent Rod and Gun Club, at Myers Station, Md., Saturday, were admitted to bail by Judge J. R. Bashears at a special term of court yesterday afternoon. Six of the men put up $1,000 each and the others $500 each. A hearing will be given today to the 133 still held.

One of the men caught in the raid says that results of the third race at New Orleans were coming in at the club when a bull dog in the yard started to bark. Then the doors were opened, and the police appeared in citizens clothes each holding a revolver. Men in the club thought they were being held up.

"If you move except to put up your hands, we'll shoot," said Police Marshal Carter, of Baltimore, in charge of the raiders.

The police crowded the men in a corner and went for the "till" where according to the cashier, they found $1,200. After the police collected all "evidence" the prisoners were put on trains bound for Baltimore. They reached the city at 8 o'clock at night and were removed to the Central police station.

According to some of the alleged gamblers, the cells were overheated, overcrowded, and dirty. Some allege they were ill-treated. The police station was built to accommodate only thirty persons comfortably, the prisoners say.

Shortly before 4 o'clock in the morning the prisoners were removed to the railroad station, where they boarded special trains. They were taken to Annapolis and put in the jail there in charge of Sheriff John E. Potee.

CORN SHOW AT WARRENTON.

Corn Growers' Association to Hold Forth Latter Part of Month.

Blacksburg, Va., Jan. 18.—E. R. Hodgson, associate professor of agronomy at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and secretary-treasurer of the Virginia Corn Growers' Association, gives out the following statement about the seventh annual show, to be held in Warrenton, Va., January 27-28, 1915:

"This association was organized at Blacksburg, January 21, 1909, and its objects are:

"To establish improved breeds and types of corn which shall in the best possible way meet the needs of the Virginia farmers.

"To promote the growing of pure bred corn throughout the State.

"To furnish a means by which valuable native varieties of corn which show purity of breeding, may be recognized as pure bred.

"To protect farmers who desire to purchase pure bred seed by supplying such information as will enable them to distinguish the different brands, or strains of corn, and furnish them with the names of reliable growers.

"To hold an annual corn show and to further in any way possible the corn growing interests of the State.

"To establish a score card, or a standard of perfection."

Though this association has only been in existence since 1909 it has nearly 200 members scattered throughout Virginia.

WILL NOT PRAY FOR VICTORY.

Foe Also Convinced Cause is Just, Says Westminster Canon.

London, Jan. 18.—Dr. William Carnegie, Canon of Westminster, announced to his parishoners on "Intercession Sunday," that he would not comply with the request that had been made of him to pray for the success of British arms. He said:

"Among the things which I hold should not be prayed for—I mention it with great hesitation, but feel it to be my duty, since it is set forth in the seventh section of the authorized form—is the triumph of our cause. We hold that our cause is righteous, but our foes are equally convinced that righteousness is on their side. God is the judge, and we must pray for submission to His will, whatever be the issue."

The movement of animal lovers to introduce a special prayer for animals into the service also has no support in the higher clergy, if at all in the clergy of the English church.

"I cannot sanction for use in church the Litany which contains a prayer for the animals and speaks of them as offering their guileless lives," says Dr. Gore, Bishop of Oxford. "It has never been the custom of the church to pray for any other thing than those we think are rational. It is a complete mistake to suppose the orthodox churches would countenance any such prayers. We can, of course, pray for men that they may be kind to animals."

SNOW COVERING THE BATTLE LINES

Combattants Floundering Through Drifts to Get Positions.

REFORMING LINES.

Germans Continue to Shell Soissons and French Positions in Valley of Aisne Without Result.

Paris, Jan. 18— From the Argonne to upper Alsace the combatants in the great war today are floundering through enormous wastes of snow. Military operations are influenced but not ended. Both sides are trying to benefit by the changed weather conditions, and are endeavoring to force artillery with infantry supports through the blocked forests and mountains, but according to the best advices reaching here, with small success.

To the north, in Flanders, the Germans continue to reform their lines. So far the threatened assaults in force have been witheld. Instead the artillery continues its monotonous exchange, leveling once prosperous hamlets and farmhouses to debris. This is especially so in the region of Nieuport, La Bassee, Ypres, and Arras, where each side has vainly attempted a forward movement only to have it checked by a most deadly artillery fire.

Rain has fallen almost without interruption along the valley of the Aisne and north into Flanders since Saturday morning. The Germans continue to shell Soissons and the French positions in the valley of the Aisne, but it is officially declared that they are making no progress there.

Fighting for the trenches and foundry buildings in the vicinity of Blangy, east of Arras, continues with varying results. The Germans first took the foundry, lost it to a general assault, in turn recaptured it and were for the second time disodged. There have been heavy losses at this point.

"THE VENDETTA."

This great five part picture from the famous novel by Marie Corelli will be shown at the Richmond Theatre tomorrow afternoon and night. The character, Fabio Romani, is the husband of the beautiful Nina, an Italian girl. They have a charming daughter by the name of Stella and a close friend, Guido Ferrari, a constant visitor.

Fabio on a trip to town is stricken with cholera plague and pronounced dead by the hooded doctors and is immediately placed in a wooden casket to guard against infection and buried in an old family vault to slip from the niche, taking with it a coffin that had lain undisturbed for many centuries on a lower tier. The terrible blow causes Fabio's hair to turn white in a single hour and upon returning home finds his old friend embracing his wife and determines upon a horrible vengeance. Disguised he returns to his faithless wife and during one of his visits Stella, his child is taken sick and dies, making known his identity, however, to her before the little girl passes away. He induces Nina to marry him after which a duel follows resulting in the death of Guido.

Under the pretense of showing Nina the source of his fabulous wealth he leads her to the vault and throws her in the open doors and follows her. The disclosure of his identity results in Nina going insane. Suddenly the earth moves. There is a roar of crashing pillars and Nina is killed instantly. Fabio believing it the vengeance of the gods rushes out in panic.

This is the earthquake and thus is the Vendetta accomplished.

BREWERY AGAIN AT WORK

Workmen Secured to Take Places of Old Employees—Will Be Run as Open Shop.

With the arrival of a number of brewers and other skilled employees from New York last night and the employment of helpers from this city as firemen, bottlers and drivers, work in all departments of the Robert Portner Brewing Co. was resumed this morning and the backbone of the strike, which commenced last Tuesday, is believed to have been broken.

It is said that several of the strikers have applied for work but the management would only take them back with the understanding that hereafter the brewery would be run as an "open shop."

The strikers, more than 100 in number, have made no effort to stop the new men from going to work and there has been no disorder.

An Adam Bedroom Suite of Exquisite Design
The beautiful and refined Adam period Suite, which differentiates just enough from the Sheraton to be distinctive and elegant. The severeness of the Sheraton design is relieved by the addition of carving and the modest insertion of cane; the fluted ornaments and hand-carved husk bring distinction and are the favorite feature of the Adam Brothers, The design and size have been well considered together, one accentuating the beauty of the other. This suite is well adapted to the modern apartment being graceful and refined and not too massive for the space which it is intended to occupy.
This Suite may be had in antique Mahogany, circassian walnut and the new soft ivory finish.

"THE TYRANNY OF THE TEXT."

A minister in one of the pulpits of this city yesterday morning inaugurated a new departure by declaring he would not announce his text at the beginning of his discourse but would evolve his subject gradually. He thereupon closed the Bible and began to speak on religion in the home. He handled his subject in a practical and impressive manner, showing from the Pentateuch that the Mosaic religion was virtually that of the home. Nearly every scene in connection with home life had some reference to the revelation made to the ancient people, and the history of the Israelites was kept fresh before the minds of the younger generation. The Passover Feast was especially striking in this way, as it was incumbent upon the father, the king and priest of the household, to explain the ceremony, in all its details, to the members of the family. Apart from this all the words spoken from Mount Sinai were to be rehearsed to the little ones and made to assimilate with their lives.

We have no intention of reproducing the sermon. But it was meat in due season to all present. The speaker's introduction set many to thinking. He said he had recently read an article, written by a layman, which bore the headline at the top of this article—"The Tyranny of the Text." While, he said, "it came from without the circle"—i. e., the ministerial class—it might be noticed and acted upon notwithstanding.

The layman who was author of the article referred to has voiced the views of others of the rank and file. Preaching from texts is very ancient and carries us back to the early days of the Christian Church, when a mystic, known as Origen, flourished. This good and well-meaning man, however, seemed to have discerned nothing else in the plain statements of scripture but allegories, and he had a spiritual meaning or application for all that had been written. His history is sad. We cannot reproduce it here, but any one who has the interest to do so can find all that is desired in any encyclopedia.

The example set by this disciple has been followed by the great bulk of Christian teachers ever since. Many people in our day, however, can see no good reason why holy writ is dispensed so sparingly—a verse, or often half a verse, being about all that is considered necessary as the basis of pulpit discourses. Why not have expositorial teaching occasionally, which would give the hearers a better acquaintance with the Book of Books? Every man has not the opportunity to a become a Bible student. Many have not the leisure nor the books. Some have not the natural requirements for becoming students of the word.

While much can be said in favor of the present method equally as much can be said in opposition. A book entitled "Vagaries of the Pulpit." appeared many years ago, which showed how little some occupants of pews know of the book from which sermons are delivered weekly. A self-constituted preacher on one occasion announced that his text would be found in the 70th chapter of Isaiah—"Let every tub stand upon its own bottom." It is unnecessary to state that no such words appear in the Bible, nor are there 70 chapters in Isaiah. The man's hearers, however, did not know any better.

A canal boatman, who had added preaching to his duties in life, on one occasion in addressing a crowd of people of his own standing, said he could not read, but his text would be found somewhere between the Book of Generation and the Book of Revolution—"And he played upon a harp of a thousand strings—Spirits of just men made perfect."

"In one of Wilkie Collins's novels, "The Moonstone," a crude character known as Gabriel Betteredge appears. He is chief of servants in a country manor. He never had but one book—Robinson Crusoe—from which he drew all his inspiration. In every emergency of life he is represented as opening that volume at any place and finding words to suit his case. We have not referred to this in an irreverent way, but merely to show how some people regard a custom as old as the north star.

PRAISES MRS. BARRETT'S PLAN

Caminetti Approves Suggestions Regarding Alien Women.

Approval of recommendations made by Mrs. Kate Waller Barrett for the treatment, arrest, and return to their native countries of women and girls denied admission to this country or deported by immigration authorities is given in the annual report of Commissioner of Immagration Caminetti.

Mrs. Barrett, in her capacity as president of the National Council of Women and the National Florence Crittenton missions, attended the sessions of the international Council of women at Rome last June, and at the request of Commissioner Caminetti represented the Bureau of Immigration at the council.

"From a study of the subject, the experience of the bureau, and the views set forth by Mrs. Barrett's report." Commissioner Caminetti says, "it is recommended that in the treatment, arrest, and return to the the country whence they came of women and girls guilty of immoral acts changes be made so as to accomplish.

"First a more kindly and considerate handling of the case than has been practicable by a system under which such cases were handled in the main like other deportations.

"Second, the avoidance to the fullest extent possible of the incarceration of women and girls in jails or other similar places, and the holding of them, where suitable immigration stations are not available, in the houses of philanthropic and religious societies, preferably of the nationality or religious sect of the alien.

"Third, the return of the aliens to their native country at times and under circumstances which will make it possible, either directly or through societies in this country in constant communication with related or similar soceties abroad, to see that women and girls are brought under proper surveillance and influence when landed on the other side. This in order that, to the fullest extent practicable, deportation shall result, not in affording means of further degradation of the alien, but rather in at least placing her in the way of opportunties for reformation."

Commissioner Caminetti says that the timely and wise suggestions are made by Mrs. Barrett that "pending investigation and deportation such women and girls be placed in the hands of some private philanthropy which has given assurance to the bureau of its practical value as a co-operative agency, such organization to be of the nationality and religion of the alien if possible, and full particulars of the case be sent by the commissioner general to the national committee in the country to which the woman or girl belongs."

In this connection, the report calls attention to a suggestion by Mrs. Barrett that the Bureau of Immigration confer with officers of the leading private organizations representing different international groups and ascertain which are willing to co-operate with the Government in assisting women of their own nationality held for deportation.

At the same time, the Government by handling the matter on a basis of international co-operation, will aid in ferreting out the culprits responsible for the coming of these women and girls to this country.

Commissioner Caminetti pays high praise to Mrs. Barrett in his report.

"It was fortunate for the country" he said, "that the services of Mrs. Barrett were enlisted in the study and consideration of questions among the most important of those of which the attention of the department and bureau is constantlydirected, as she by virtue of her many gifts and her labors in humanity's cause occupies a leading place among the world's greatest benefactors."

FOUND MURDERED.

Manager of Furniture Company Shot to Death in Negro Street in Norfolk.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 18.—Charles E. Savage, manager of the Bridgman Company, credit furniture and stove dealers and also a notary public at 705 Church street, was shot and instantly killed about 7:35 o'clock Saturday night in front of 944 Cambridge street, a small negro street in Huntersville. A bullet entered his head directly under the right eye, while another entered his right arm pit, passing into the chest.

The murderer made good his escape and no clue has been discovered by the police.

Savage was out collecting from colored people in Huntersville and was coming east on Cambridge street at the time of the shooting. Two theories are advanced by the police to account for his murder. One is that of highway robbery and the other is that some one may have had a grievance against Savage because of some debt or money matter. If the former was the case the murderer was evidently scared off before he could rob the dead man, as his watch and chain and some change and other belongings were found in his pocket.

Killed by a Train.

Bristol, Va., Jan. 18.—Noah Heath, of Glade Springs, Va., 25 years old, was killed here Saturday night. Leaping from a freight train on which he had been riding he fell into a cattle guard, and was so badly injured he was unable to escape an out-going passenger train on the Norfolk and Western Railway, and was crushed to death. A card in his pocket showed he was a member of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics.

The Haitian revolutionists have taken possession of Cape Haiten. This followed an understanding between the rebels and the garrison. There was no disorder during the turn over of authority. Gen. Vilbrun Guillaume, a candidate for the presidency, is in command of the local forces. The foreign consuls have asked the American consul to request the Washington government to send a warship to protect the interests of foreigners at this port.

I. W. W.'S START RIOT.

Led by Widow of Haymarket Anarchist, Smash Windows And Maul Cops.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Members of the I. W. W. started a riot today at a meeting called for the unemployed at Hull House yesterday. They fought the police when prevented from parading with black banners when they had no permit, and after a fight in which a number of policemen were mauled and scores of the paraders injured, twenty-two were arrested.

Many of the prisoners are women. One of them, Mrs. Lucy Parsons, widow of one of the anarchists hanged for the Haymarket murders, is accused by First Deputy Schuettler of having caused the whole trouble.

"Mrs. Parsons told the men that this city belongs to them as much as to any one," said Schuettler "and she told them to go out and parade and smash windows and take food if they could not get it any other way. 'And I'll lead you and carry a banner,' she said. I know, for I had men in disguise who sat throughout the meeting."
